

LEARNING JOURNEY

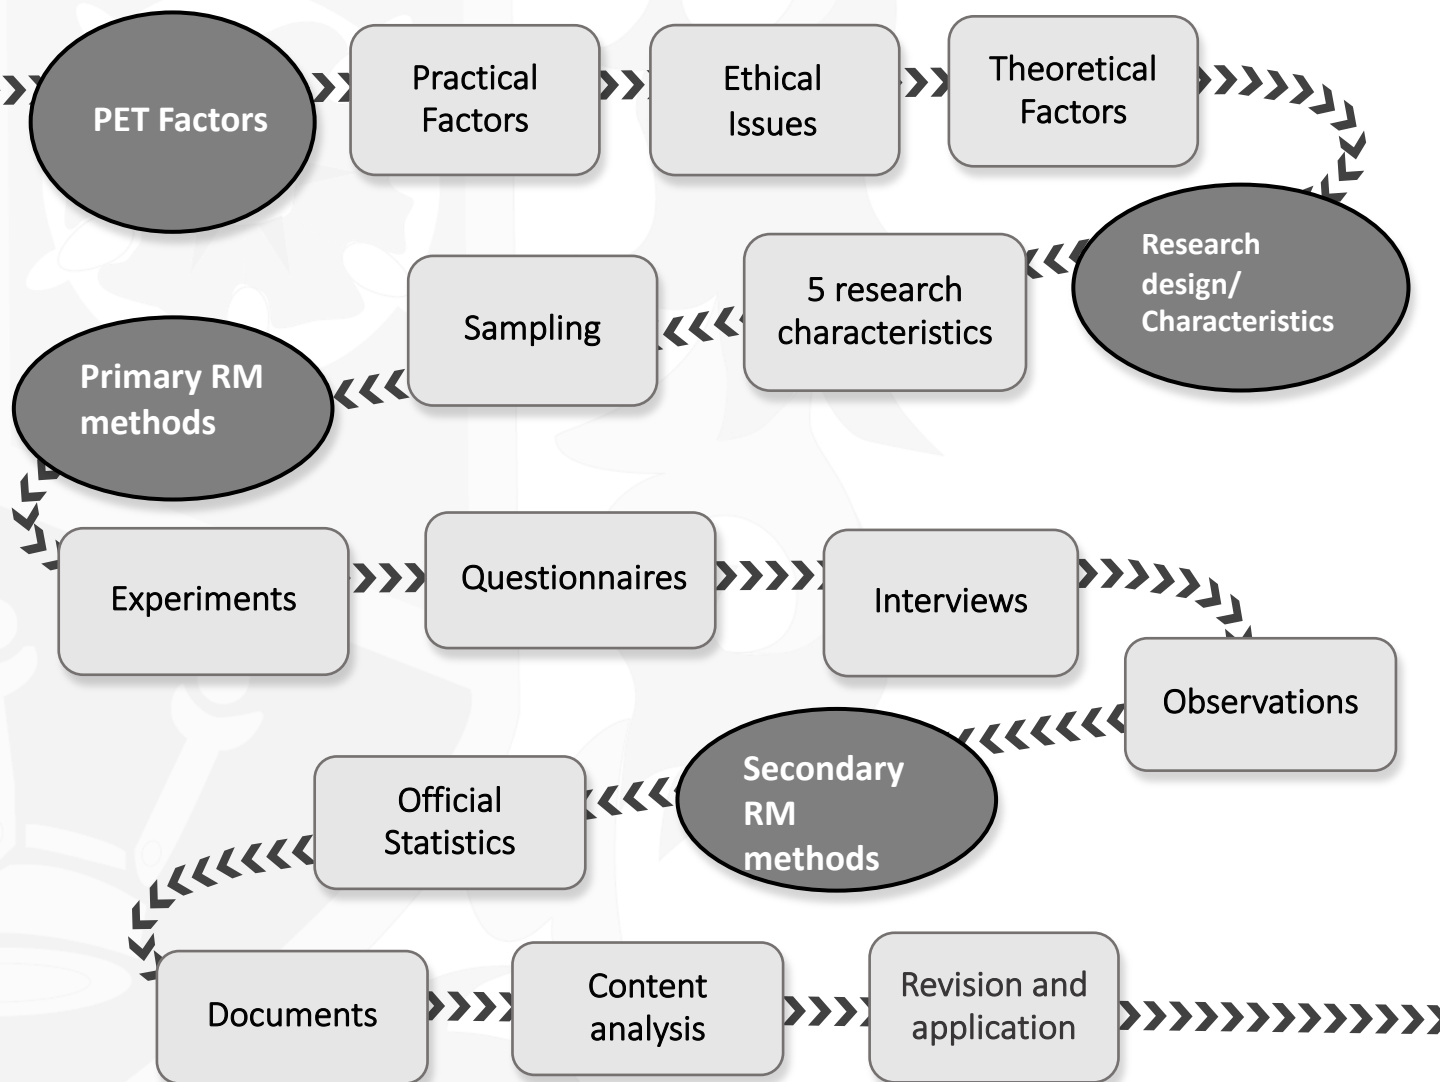

Sociology

Research Methods and MIC (methods in Context)

Year 12 Summer Term

In this topic you will explore key sociological research methods used by Sociologists. You will then apply this new knowledge to your existing knowledge of the Education topic. Skills of evaluation and application will be honed. A key factor of research for Sociologists is considering ethical implications on participants. Assessing ethical considerations will further enable you to develop your empathy and understanding of how different people experience society based on characteristics such as age, gender, ethnicity and class.

TUDOR HABITS AND VALUES: You will develop empathy in this unit through considering the ethical implications of research methods and processes on those studied.

VOCABULARY:

ethical, experiment, interpretivist, interview, observation, official statistics, positivist, practical, primary source, q qualitative, quantitative, secondary source