PSYCHOLOGY

Social influence

Year 10 Spring term

How we behave in groups define who we are as people. You will develop your understanding of social processes such as conformity, obedience & crowd behaviour. Understanding the influence of others allows you to become more robust & resistant to the pressures of others which is vital as you progress to young adulthood.

TUDOR HABITS AND VALUES: You will advance your understanding of how to self-regulate in group situations. Understanding how social processes work allows you to build resilience and strategies to better assert your own beliefs and values and become more autonomous by resisting group pressures.

VOCABULARY: Obedience, Group size, Agency theory, Authority, Deindividuation, Culture, Personality, Ethical issues.
