French Revolution and the rule of Napoleon 1774–1815

Autumn Term

You will develop your knowledge of the causes of Napoleon's downfall, analysing the relative importance of the contributing factors. You will also evaluate the extent to which Napoleon was responsible for his own downfall, through unforced errors and overstretching of his resources.

Alongside this, you will continue to write your NEA on the aspect of the French Revolution of your choice, with your first two drafts due during this term.

Through these two aspects of your course, you will continue to develop your understanding of the different skills and processes required to be a historian. There's also excellent links to a career in STEM research or law, due to the attention to detail and nuance of argument necessary in your work.

PERSONAL DEVELOPMENT: You will continue to investigate what it means to be a democratic citizen and debate societal issues. However, crucially here, discussion will also be formed around the impact of being willing to step up and participate to help to shape the world, as a link to the coalition powers and their united front against Napoleon.

HISTORY VOCABULARY: coalition, subsidies, Napoleonic Code, Hundred Days, peninsular

SKILLS VOCABULARY: consistent analysis, substantiated conclusions, assertion.
